

ABSTRACT

A method for screening malt characterized by evaluating fatty acid hydroperoxide lyase activity in malt, and a method for producing a malt-based sparkling beverage characterized by using malt having low fatty acid hydroperoxide lyase activity screened by the method for screening.